

EXHIBIT G

INTERNATIONAL TREASURE GROUP LLC

WEEKLY REPORT

December 4th, 2021

ITG Renewal

In the Nov 24 meeting, Jason signaled that the ITG consultancy services contract will be extended. ITG will prepare a lengthy report on the value it brought over the first four months of contract.

Brazil Legal Entity

No new developments on this topic. We are still waiting for GETTR's final decision on this regard in order to get the process of establishing the Brazil legal entity started.

Issues With Payment

Over the past three weeks, there were multiple issues related to delays in payments.

Media outlets affected: Gazeta do Povo, Jovem Pan, 4x4. Work conducted by Script and hiring of new assets (such as events) have been halted.

In the specific case of Jovem Pan, it was crucial that a wire be made by November 19 so that the deal Paulo negotiated stood. The deadline was extended to Nov 23, but during our Nov 24 weekly meeting the money hadn't been transferred to Script yet. Jovem Pan withdrew the offer and sent a second one, with roughly 100 less insertions.

Jason stated that GETTR has a new CFO and a new VP of Finance, is conducting an audit and accounts payable will be sorted out by the week of Dec 7.

Legal Matters

There were no new slanderous pieces in the press in the past 3-week period, which hints that the notification policy may be rendering results.

1. Influencer Program

After the hiring of the new CFO and VP of Finance, GETTR is going through an audit, which is impacting the timelines until at least the week of December 7, when Jason expects to provide the final go-forward to the Program.

2. GETTR Brazil Presidential Poll

GT Lawyers greenlighted the plan, with caveats linked to the observance of Brazil's electoral laws.

Media Plan

A detailed list (with the updated status) of the proposed media buys is in this link.

Script formally hired and able to manage payments to Brazilian media outlets that are contracted from now on, according to the process that was agreed upon: Script to be wired the funds in advance of authorizing the airing of the flights.

Payments are still a big issue. Gazeta issued a warning of possible suspension a couple of days before the first of their two invoices was paid (second one is due and still pending).

Paulo is renegotiating the second offer made by Jovem Pan, but we are recommending the bulk of the media plan be deployed after the year-end break: most political institutions enter recess by Dec 20, not much happens – even political commentators take vacations – and audience drops precipitously.

Also, if the bulk of the Media Plan starts before the Influencer Program, we risk attracting new users and finding it hard to retain them for lack of engageable content – which the Influencer Program aims to solve.

Script is finalizing the old version of the ad to submit to Condecine and generate the link to Jovem Pan. In parallel, script is working on the new version of the ad, using similar graphic features and defining the subcontractor for the job.

Paulo is generating content and posts on GETTR without any additional cost in order to make up for the delays in Media Plan and Influencer Program.

Influencers Program

At the Nov 24 meeting, Jason requested a one-page summary of how the Influencer Program would work from the user's perspective.

At the Dec 1 meeting, ITG presented the document "Influencer Journey," which comprises off a single flowchart that covers the request plus additional details on each step of the Journey, with specs and recommendations.

Jason stated in the Dec 1 meeting that he expects to give a go-forward to the plan on the week of Dec 7. He mentioned that the audit has been 90% completed and requested a meeting with Ebony and Robin to sign off on the Program.

At the same meeting, Jason requested the KPIs by which the Program's success will be measured, as well as a guesstimate on the Program's ROI – which he wishes to discuss with Gavin, Ileana and Doug.

On Dec 2, ITG sent out an email with the KPIs recommendation. That info, bundled with the ROI recommendation will be presented in a single document on Dec 7.

We expect that, after the formal sign-off on the program, all the different fronts (IT, Marketing, Legal, Finance) in the project will be put in motion.

Events Sponsorship

1. 2nd Conservative Congress - Liberty and Democracy

Event was held in Florianopolis (South Brazil) from Dec 13th to 15th. Brand activations done as negotiated. Waiting for the event email database for further actions.

2. Congresso Politicamente Incorreto (Politically Incorrect Congress)

Organized by a Congressman (Carlos Jordy), the event will be held in Niteroi RJ on Dec 18th . Awaiting for the formal proposal and documents (W8, NDA, Invoice).

3. Carnaval

Of all the options we have procured, there is only one left available. The vendor was expecting to receive approval and up-front payment some time during the week of Dec 7.

We discussed this in light of the current payments situation, which might be sorted out by the same time.

Also, we discussed the possibility of Carnaval being suspended, due to the Omicron variant. Since then, mayors of both Rio and São Paulo canceled the official New Year's celebration – and received a sizable blowback because of that. No clear indication as to whether this becomes a trend leading to Carnaval.

4. Médicos Pela Vida

A Congress for 1,000 physicians from around the globe to be held in Brasília (Dec 10-12). Congress account settled and ready to livestream the event on GETTR. Awaiting for the formal proposal for the sponsorship of the event, already negotiated at 20k reais ( 3,640.00 USD)

5. Brasil Profundo

To be organized by Instituto Conservador-Liberal, Jason approved.

6. Freedom of Speech Award

An event to recognize achievements on freedom of speech in Brazil is set to be developed together with Sergio Sant'Ana.

Other Notes

Jason requested that we start looking for cryptocurrency-related events.

Paulo suggested to KD a GETTR-hosted press coverage in Brazilian Portuguese of CPAC in Orlando.

Media Relations

Jason's Op-Ed on Folha de S. Paulo was published on Nov 29 (Monday). The response has been extremely positive.

Paulo pointed out that it provides a good defense as to GETTR's publicized intent, which might be important in light of future actions by Brazil's Judiciary.

Gerald stated that it has been a great topic for socializing with allies and media relationships.

Jason requested that the platform itself helped push visibility of the article.

PR Firm

We expect to receive a proposal from Daniela Camargos, former CEO of a large Brazilian PR firm, who would serve as Roberto Machado's PR right arm – he was the one who secured the Folha Op-Ed. Roberto acts more as a lobbyist than a press relations professional at this point, and OK'd our contacting Daniela.

Felipe Pedri finally got back to Paulo and referred someone who currently works at a federal agency and was hoping to conduct the GETTR job without quitting her current position. Paulo pondered that her current "stable" job is set to become temporary with the coming elections. (Nominated positions in the federal government are likely to be shifted with a change in government – even in reelection –, if not earlier, as part of electoral coalitions.) We expect to hear back from her over the week of Dec 7.

GETT Presidential Poll

Paulo suggested the funding of a presidential poll with IBESPE, a reputable research institute in Brazil. Jason stated that he would not like to publish a poll with results that disfavor Bolsonaro at this point.

We inquired GT Lawyers, who not only said it would be OK not to publish the poll if results are negative, but listed all the legal requirements for such poll to be carried out. The project is viable.

Paulo also requested the poll to include some GETTR and social media market-related questions, which would render useful even if its results are not to be published.
